How do you judge how successful you have been?

Money raised is the most obvious but it is not the only or even always the most important way of measuring success. Also important are;

- Greater awareness of your issue amongst the rest of the school
- Changes in behaviour amongst the rest of the school (relevant if issue effects them directly)
- How those affected by the issue reacted to your support
- How those who make decisions which effect your issue reacted to your support of the issue
- What you and the rest of your class learnt about your issue

Not every one of the above points will be relevant to your class's campaign.
